Independence Day Celebrated in the Special Festival of Holidays.

Teas and Receptions of the Week. Seciety Notes and Personals of People You Know.

Independence Day, as celebrated last night at Willard Hall, under the auspices of Lincoln Corps, was a realistic reproduction of that first American hall-lay. The first salate fired from the hard-tack fort in the center of the stage saluted an naurence that packed both auditorium and galleries to the door, and still the crowd arged in.

A ting salk flag was presented to each guest as a souvenir of the occasion, and in accution to the usual attractive drapery of the booths and walls the committee on occasion to the last of the committee of the countries of the booths and walls the committee on occasion that the committee on occasion to the last of the committee of the booths and walls the committee of the countries of the booths and walls the committee of the countries of the co

of the booths and walls the committee on occuration and placed a life-way por-rate of Washington on the right of the stage, with an ideal painting of Liberty, as a companion piece, on the left.

Mrs. Anderson, wife of Department Commander Anderson, of Lincoin Post, was general chalman of the evening's entertainment; the master of ceremonies being Commander Chase, of the post in charge. The program was an elaborate one, that appealed to the pairiotism of the andience, being prefaced by an eloquent address by Comrade Anderson, who was forced to confine himself to a brief speech because of the pairful accident be has recently sustained.

Upon the close of his address a quarter composed of Miss Bell W. Smith, Miss Muir and Messrs. Flatha and Hall, sang the "Flag of Stars and Stripes," followed by a tableau representes; the signing of the declaration of Independence by the order of Red Men. There were other tableaux consisting of the thirteen original States supplemented by the number as they now stand, concluding with the admission of Utah into the Union, accompanied by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by forty-four young laddes.

By special request the flag drill, which proved so popular on the opening night of the entertainment, was repeated under the direction of Miss Minnie Roberts, and the program was artistically closed by the Order of Red Mea, who gave an illustration of wild Innians on the plains.

Today the corps will serve oysters at all hours in every styre, and the week of American holidays will close its festival with a gentiline camp fire tonight.

LIFE INSURANCE BUREAU.

Proposition to Amend the Law Regulating Underwriting.

The life insurance men are moving in the direction of systematizing their business and creating a commission to which all of the companies will report. At present in several of the States there is a bareau or commission to which annual reports are made. The question now before the insurance people is the establishment of a Federal bureau or national insurance department on the line that was discussed last summer. Congress will be asked to legislate in the matter.

One of the insurance ment said last night that some such plan as that proposed would do away to a great extent if not absolutely, with the wisical companies, which under present laws in some of the States are permitted to do business without any responsibility to the State or their clients.

There was a discussion of this matter ulating Underwriting.

their clients.
There was a discussion of this matter of the formation of a national department by members of the District Life Underwriters' Association reserved a. One of the principal reforms to be effected will be that no company could do business here if chartered in another State without having obtained a certificate from the national commission of department.

A bill with these reforms and charges in view will be prepared for the coming session of Congress.

VALIDITY STILL IN DOUBT. Jury in the Olmstead Will Case Fails to Agree.

The Olmstead will case, famous in local The Olmstead will case, famous in local court annals, which has been twice tried without decisive results, will have to be again heard by a jury.

The outcome of the second trial transpired yesterday, when the jury came before Justice Branley yesterday morning, announced their inability to agree and were discharged.

There were four points involved in the case, as last heard, these beinz. First, as to the mental capacity of the testator, second, testamentary knowledge of the contents of the will; third, the question as to undue influence, and, fourth, as to frand upon the part of the beneficiary under the will.

The jury did not agree upon a single point, nor the ballots the same as to any two of the issues. It is understood, however, that the preponderance of sentiment as to each was against the validity of the will.

Counsel for Mr. Olmstead gave notice that upon the first day of the January term a notion would be made to set a day for a rehearing.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Prof. Walcott Describes Its Work in His Annual Report.

Prof. C. D. Walcott, director of the United States Geological Sarvey, in a report of the work of the men in the field informs the Secretary of the Interior that material has been gathered from a uniletin on the slate belt of New York and Vermont. Observations have been made of the geology of the Ningara Falls region.

An investigation has been made of the mineral resources in the Uncompagre Indian reservation in Utah. This reservation is soon to be opened to settlement. Gilsonite was the only mineral there of commercial value.

There are enormous quantities and the report states that it offers an opportunity for the development of an extensive industry. The survey of the Indian Territory was progressing rapidly. During the past month the corps of scientific men in the field surveyed 7,600 square miles.

Petersburg, who was arrested in Sevuic, Spain, in October, and extradicted to England, was arraigned here today upon the charge of having stolen from her busband securities valued at £100,000.

Her husband's counsel said that Mrs. Besson had cloped with a Spaniard, taking the securities with her, and that it was the intention of the cloping couple to go from Spain to America. Aircady, counsel asserted, the defendant had disposed of £30,000 worth of the stolen securities.

Mrs. Besson's lawyer stated that the husband had taken his wife's name, and did not deny that the property was here, but sought to manage and administer it because of the community of goods under the marriage contract, which was drawn according to the provisions of the French law. The case was adjourned, the defendant being liberated under bonds in the sum of £5,000, which were furnished by herself.
